Vetropack Group: Board of Directors appoints new Head of Marketing, Sales and Production Planning at Group level

Bülach, 4 March 2019 – The Board of Directors of Vetropack Holding Ltd has appointed Evan Williams as the new Group-wide Head of Marketing, Sales and Production Planning with effect from 1 June 2019. He will also become a member of the Management Board.

Evan Williams, aged 52, holds a Bsc Honours graduate in business administration and applied psychology at Aston University in Birmingham UK. Born in the UK, Williams also holds an Executive MBA from Ashridge Hult International Business School. A strong negotiator, over the past 25 years, his professional focus has been glass packaging: working for O-I Europe, he headed up the marketing and sales areas across various regions and categories. His most recent position saw him assume responsibility for global cross-functional key account teams. Williams adopts a strategic and target-oriented approach and is well acquainted with the area of production planning.

Marcello Montisci, the current Head of Marketing, Sales and Production Planning, has already reduced his employment level by 50 percent at the end of February. Prior to his well-deserved retirement at the end of 2019, he will continue to be available to Vetropack Group for special projects.
